MOVE MADE TO SECURE SITE FOR A HOCKENBURY-FINANCED HOTEL HERE

That Company's Survey Results Favorably—Tentative Plan Calls for 125 Rooms and Raising of $600,000—"It Can't Be Done-ers" Chief Obstacle.

That Kingston needs a new hotel. That a modern hotel of 100 rooms may be built and equipped at a cost of $500,000, that enough preferred stock can be sold in Kingston to finance the hotel company, that a loan can be procured from the insurance company without the payment of any bonus other than about one and one-half per cent for expenses, and, finally, that such a hotel would pay dividends from the beginning and would soon have to be enlarged, summarizes the report made Saturday evening by a representative of the Hockenbury Company at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. The financial side of such a project the Hockenbury Company is willing to undertake, but Captain Bobo of the American Hotels Corporation, which is willing to lease and operate the hotel, was so certain that a hotel of 125 rooms could be built and would be needed at once, that it was voted to enter into an agreement with the Hockenbury Company on the basis of a 125-room hotel. This will involve the raising of approximately $600,000 and the proposal may or may not be accepted by the Hockenbury Company.

Four sites were considered by the Hockenbury Company, ranging in cost from $55,000 to $250,000, and a committee was appointed to at once procure options on all four, for definite prices might be fixed when it comes time to settle on a site.

The Hockenbury Company, which manages the financing of hotels, acts only after its own men have made an investigation on which is based a report covering the type, cost and site of the hotel to be built and the amount of stock that can be marketed in the locality. The survey of Kingston takes into consideration the number of transient automobiles in garages, the number of commercial travelers who come here, the possibilities for conventions, visitors brought here on account of hospitals, courts, etc., and the fact that the nearest competition for tourists is Newburgh.

The results of the survey were presented by Mr. Adderton of the Hockenbury Company. As to ability to finance the project, Mr. Adderton cited the case of Durham, N. C., where they started out to raise $200,000 and raised $900,000. In preliminary estimates one group of seven men had been counted on for $250,000. They actually put in $25,000. The weakest point in the situation in Kingston is the "it-can't-be-done attitude of the people. Of 50 persons interviewed at length two were opposed to the project generally, five thought business would be poor in winter, three thought the hotel would not pay and one was in doubt, seven would not buy stock. Estimates of total cost ran from $350,000 to $600,000 and amount of local subscriptions from $100,000 to $500,000. Nearly all of the 50 thought the hotel could secure permanent guests and favored the American Hotels Corporation or some other chain of hotels operating the hotel. On a $500,000 investment in a 100 room hotel the income, estimated on a basis of 70 per cent occupancy, would be $114,354, the operating expenses $42,000 and the fixed charges $39,688.75. After paying six per cent interest on the preferred stock this would leave $14,855.25 net profit, so that a dividend of $5 a share could be paid on the common stock.

The common stock will be given a bonus, one share with every two shares of preferred stock sold, and an equal amount held by the operating company, so that profits are divided evenly between the operating company and the local stockholders and the operating company is dependent for its profits on earnings and dividends. This is the plan followed by the American Hotels Corporation and was described fully in The Freeman a few days ago in connection with a description of the new hotel in New Britain, Conn.

Captain Bobo of the American Hotels Corporation, said his concern was anxious to operate a hotel in Kingston because this was regarded as a strategic point in their chain, being between Albany and New York, where the new $11,000,000 Roosevelt Hotel is being built and will be operated by the company, which operates the Ten Eyck in Albany, the Mt. Royal in Montreal, the Onondaga in Syracuse, the Utica in Utica, the Seneca in Rochester, and many others. The company advertises its hotels extensively and in various ways. Each hotel advertises all the others. A new hotel in Kingston will be advertised so thoroughly that when the opening date comes it will have business right away.

Tentative rough sketches of plans were presented to Mr. Anderson, of the White Co., but there was nothing definite in this line considered pending the selection of a site. Those at the meeting were E. E. Passenden, A. J. Burns, Herbert Carl, W. Anderson, Carl, Dr. Mark O'Meara, John H. Gregory, Dr. Mary Gage-Day, Peter A. Black, Max Reben, Judge Fowler and Secretary Coe, of the Chamber of Commerce.

Feb. Milk Nets Poolers $1.77

It was announced at the New York office of the Dairyman's League Co-operative Association, Inc., that the February pool price for three per cent milk at the 201-210 miles zone is $1.90 per 100 pounds with a deduction of five cents for certificates of indebtedness and eight cents for pool expenses. The cash distribution is $1.77 payable on March 25.

Rev. Eugene Hill Ends His Life

President of Old Twentieth Regiment Association, Well Known in Ulster County, Had Become Dependent.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Garfield, N. J., March 17.—The Rev. Eugene Hill, 77 years old, a figure in religious, civic and G. A. R. affairs for years, committed suicide here Sunday. Mrs. Hill found him in an upstairs bedroom that morning lying unconscious on the floor, his throat slashed, an open knife beside him. She told the police her husband had grown dependent because of ill health the past few years.

From 1901 to 1921, Dr. Hill was pastor of the First Reformed Church which he helped to build, and upon his retirement because of advancing age he was made pastor emeritus of the congregation. For the past twelve years he had been secretary of the Garfield Board of Education. For many years he was commander of the George O. Meade Post, Grand Army of the Republic, of Massaic.

Dr. Hill was especially devoted to the G. A. R. organization, and many unnoted services he rendered personally to various old soldiers in this vicinity are coming to light with his passing. As a boy during the early years of the Civil War he fought at his youth which prevented him from entering the Union Army. In 1864 he was accepted though only 17, and joined Company C, Eightieth New York Volunteer Infantry. (Old Twentieth Regiment) serving through General Grant's campaigns to the surrender at Appomattox.

Mr. Hill was born in Rosendale in 1847 and for more than 40 years of his life was a resident of Ulster county. He was in the employ of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company for many years and while employed by that company as telegraph operator at Paddyville carried on his studies for the ministry. His first pastorate was the Reformed Church at Bloomingdale, in which he was ordained by the Classis of Kingston in 1881. About three years later he accepted a call to the church at Ulster Park. Later he was pastor of Reformed Churches at West Nyack and Coxsackie, N. Y., and Three Bridges, N. J., going to Garfield. He was a frequent visitor in Kingston and was prominent in the veterans' association of the Old Twentieth Regiment, having served as chaplain for a number of years and at the time of his death holding for the second term the office of president.

FIVE NARROWLY MISS DEATH IN ALBANY FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., March 17.—Five persons narrowly escaped from death in a fire early today at 3 Clinton avenue. The blaze started in the cellar of a clothing store. Mrs. Emma Stolkler, 55, rescued after being trapped on the third floor, was taken to Memorial hospital.

She will recover. Three other women and a girl were carried from the blazing structure by firemen.

Archbishops Reach Rome

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Rome, March 17.—Archbishops Hayes of New York and Archbishop Mundelein, of Chicago, who will be elevated to the cardinalate, arrived today from America and were given a great ovation. Both were met at the railway station by representatives of the Vatican and by the Rev. Fr. O'Hearn, rector of the American college.

Safety Pin Caused Death

William Floyd Sherwood, Jr., two year old son of William F. Sherwood of Newburgh, died Friday from the effects of swallowing a safety pin. An operation was performed at St. Luke's Hospital in an attempt to save the child's life.

To Back Mark Owners

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Madrid, March 17.—Leading merchants in conference today decided to uphold the owners of German marks who were appealing to the directors to demand reimbursements from the German State.

Navigation Is To Start March 19

Navigation on the Hudson river between Kingston and New York city will open for the season on Wednesday, March 19, when the first Central Hudson Line steamer will come up the river from New York city. Word to that effect was received this morning by the Central Hudson Line office on Ferry street. As the ice has been gradually growing weaker it is not expected that any difficulty will be encountered in breaking a channel through the ice fields between this city and Poughkeepsie.

The Saugerties and New York Steamboat Company has announced it will open navigation between Saugerties and New York on Tuesday, March 25, weather permitting. The steamer Ida will leave Saugerties at 6 o'clock that evening for New York, and will be the first boat on that route. Regular trips will be made Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays from Saugerties and from New York on alternate nights.

Gave $350 to Each Hospital

The Jewish community of Kingston headed by Messrs. Morris Kaplan, M. Afron and D. Kantrowitz, have made contributions of $350 each to the Kingston City Hospital, and the Benedictine Hospital to furnish rooms in both institutions.

Marlboro Bank Not Defrauded

The Marlborough National Bank Saturday denied that it had made loans to John W. Elmore of New York, who is charged with grand larceny on complaint of Henry Fagher, cashier of the Rondout National Bank. Reports emanating from Kingston had said that Elmore in floating a country club scheme in southern Ulster county had borrowed from the Marlborough bank. A representative of the bank said that Elmore is not known to him, and that no loans have been made to the man who is a defendant in the Rondout matter.—Newburgh News.

Highway South Again Is Bad

Resembles Plowed Field in Places Where Trucks With Loads in Violation of Law Have Broken Through.

Although it is too early in the season to tell just how the roads of the county will come through the winter it is probable that considerable repairs will be required. There is considerable frost in the ground as yet and until this is out it will be impossible to tell just how the roads have wintered.

The road from Port Ewen south to the Ulster Park Hotel is so far the only road which has suffered to any extent by the winter weather. This road south of Port Ewen village is in bad shape in several places where the frost has cracked the road and heavy trucks have broken through the macadam and torn up the road. In several places the roadway presents the appearance of a plowed field. In these places temporary repairs are being made by putting in crushed stone but on account of the weather conditions it is impossible to make any permanent repairs.

The Abuse of Opium Explained.

The last meeting of the Stone Ridge Home Bureau proved to be unusually interesting to those present. Miss Ellen N. LaMott, a speaker of national repute and an author of several books on opium, told the members of the home bureau that opium in this country and in the Orient. Everybody was very much interested to hear Miss LaMott discuss the subject with which few are acquainted.

Bigelow To Lecture.

Poultony Bigelow will lecture on the Orient before the American Geographical Society on March 25 at the Engineering Societies' Building, 29 West 39th street, New York City.

Quake Destroys Houses.

Constantine, Africa, March 17.—A number of houses were destroyed by an earthquake in the Bata region of Algeria today. No casualties were reported.

Cancels Engagements.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. London, March 17.—According to the Westminster Gazette the Princess Mary, (Viscountess Lascelles), has cancelled all public engagements from the end of this month.

General Dead.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. San Sebastian, Spain, March 17.—General Echague, director of military aviation, died today.

Daugherty and Burns In Film Plot Testimony

Holdridge, Former Department of Justice Agent, Swears Only to Statements Implicating Them Made by "Jap" Muma.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Washington, D. C., March 17.—Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and William J. Burns were implicated directly today in the alleged conspiracy to transport and exhibit the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films by Gerald O. Holdridge, a former agent of the department of justice, who investigated the pictures case in 1921.

Holdridge, the first witness called today, told the senate investigating committee that during his work on the case he was informed by "Jap" Muma, a friend of Daugherty's, who was part owner of the film, that he (Muma) had been to Washington and that "everything was fixed." Muma's statements to him, Holdridge said, indicated that "both Daugherty and Burns were in the conspiracy."

Washington, March 17.—Gerald O. Holdridge, a former agent of the department of justice who was identified with the investigation into the alleged conspiracy to transport and exhibit the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films about the country, was the first witness called today by the senate committee when it resumed its investigation of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty.

Before Holdridge took the stand, announcements were made that subpoenas were issued today for W. T. Underwood, of Palm Beach, who was named by Gaston B. Means as a "special investigator" for the late President Harding; for J. A. Tatro, Chicago, and Casey Abbott, of Glendale, Arizona, a former mayor of Calexico, California, who frequently seized shipments of arms on route to Mexican rebels.

Holdridge said he was an agent of the department from 1920 to 1922, attached to the New York office and that in November 1921, he was assigned to investigate the Dempsey-Carpentier fight pictures case on orders from his superiors.

The orders to investigate the pictures came in a form letter from William J. Burns, to all agents. Holdridge said. Burns told him, the letter showed, that "there was evidence of a general conspiracy to violate the film law by payment of fines."

"It is evident from information before the bureau that proceeds will pay the fine many times," the letter added.

"Prior to the letter, had the pictures been exhibited in Albany and other cities in New York and throughout the country?" the witness was asked.

"Yes." "And other cities throughout the northern half of New York?" "Yes, my agents reported it to me."

"Tell us what happened when you went to New York city on a lottery case in 1921?"

"I had an agent with me, Thomas G. Spellacy, and we started the investigation. Spellacy mentioned a friend, 'Jap' Muma, and said he could get information from him."

"Where did you go?"

"We went to the Ansonia Hotel and met 'Jap' Muma in his apartment."

"Muma asked if I was acquainted with certain men in the department of justice and the secret service. He said a 'friend of mine has been approached by a department of justice man' and his friend felt there was to be shake down."

"Did he know you were a secret service man?"

"Yes. He said he was a friend of William J. Burns and the attorney general."

"What was his attitude?"

"I felt he wanted to impress me with the fact that he was close to William J. Burns and to the attorney general."

Holdridge said he made two reports on the investigation of the pictures.

Holdridge said Muma produced two letters signed "H. M. Daugherty."

"I do. It was the same as on my identification cards."

"Do you know what was in the letters?"

"They began, 'My dear Muma, and I only know the gist of them. They had to do with a request for assistance in getting some one promoted or transferred in the post office department.'"

Holdridge said the next day after the conference with Muma, "Spellacy came to me and with some excitement told me Muma was the head of the fight films conspiracy."

"Spellacy said Muma told him the whole story of the transportation of the fight films and all the details of the conspiracy. Later Muma confirmed the story directly to me" he added.

with conspirators."

"Why didn't you report to Burns?" demanded Senator Jones.

"I wanted to check upon Muma's story. He had said Burns was a part of the conspiracy and I wanted to find out about this first."

Holdridge said he "flushed" a report on Muma saying it referred to the film conspiracy "in order to get him to talk." He told of "trapping" Muma by saying a "big newspaper man was in on the deal."

"Did you know that?"

"No. I just did it to trap Muma."

"What did Muma tell you?"

"On or about July 4, 1921, acting under arrangements previously made, Muma left New York for Washington with the fight films," said Holdridge, reading from his report.

"With whom had he made arrangements?"

"He passed over that quickly, saying he had it all fixed."

"Muma said President Harding, the attorney general and members of the cabinet and their families were there and that he talked to the attorney general."

"You mean he talked to the attorney general about these prize fight films?"

"Yes."

"Muma said he went to Friendship and refreshed himself."

"What is Friendship?"

"It is the home of Edward B. McLean and Muma said he refreshed himself with a bottle of Scotch."

"Go ahead."

"The president, Mr. Hughes, Mr. Daugherty, Mr. New and Mr. Christian had a conference with Muma," Holdridge said Muma told him.

"Later Daugherty told Muma that the federal statutes on the prize fight films were only written against the transportation of films, and Muma said the attorney general told him to take up the matter with Alfred R. Upton, a lawyer in Washington."

Holdridge declared Muma told him that Daugherty said to him (Muma) "if you put this across, you ought to get a big cut not less than 50 per cent."

"You mean Muma said Daugherty told him this after saying he should see Alfred Upton?"

"Yes."

"Representatives of Tex Rickard took the matter up with Upton and they made an arrangement to show the pictures."

"What was the plan?"

"He didn't say definitely then. The plan was to use Muma's great influence with Washington officials and newspapers, saying, 'the story could be killed in any newspaper.'"

Holding said the plan as outlined by Muma "required definite understandings with United States district attorneys or assistant district attorneys."

"Tell us what Muma said about getting 'goats' in each state."

"Muma said he had to have a 'goat' in each state and that they would also have to know what would happen to the 'goat,'" Holdridge added.

"You mean they would have to know what the fine would be?"

"Yes, Muma said. 'It was also necessary to get a line on the judge in each judicial district where the pictures were to be shown,' so they would know whether there was any danger of a prison sentence," Holdridge continued.

In either Illinois or Indiana, "the judge was so hostile that the plan had to be given up."

"What was the name of the judge?"

"Judge Anderson, he told me, but they were afraid of Judge Landis," Holdridge said.

Holdridge then explained how F. C. Quimby, motion picture producer, was arrested and fined $1,000 in New York by Judge Sheppard.

"This alarmed Quimby and he went to Muma," Holdridge said.

"Quimby complained that a department of justice agent named Navarro, was making trouble for him. Muma said he would go to Washington to see about the matter and went down to Washington. He saw E. B. McLean and told McLean that he was on his way to Atlanta."

"Muma said he told McLean that it would look great in the newspapers if he got arrested while connected with McLean's newspaper and a friend of the attorney general's. After listening to Muma's story, McLean got in touch with Attorney General Daugherty."

"Did Spellacy hear this conversation you had with Muma?" asked Ashurst.

"Yes he sat right by my side."

Wheeler then ordered a subpoena for Spellacy whom Holdridge said was in St. Louis.

Holdridge said that after McLean talked to Daugherty, Muma got word he should go see William J. Burns.

"Muma told me he saw Burns and that Burns said he was going to 'put that Rickard down in Atlanta,'" said Holdridge.

"Muma said he told Burns that it wasn't Rickard who was going to Atlanta but 'me' because I carried the whole transaction."

"Muma said that he had told Burns, 'I am the master mind.' He said Burns appeared to be irritated and cursed around a bit. Among other emphatic things he said 'everybody knows everything around here' and then he will keep the pictures on the go."

DOHENY BRIBED FALL, SAYS GOVT IN FILING SUIT TO CANCEL LEASES

Pan-American Company Got Its Leases In California Naval Oil Reserve Through Fraud and Conspiracy—Fall Paid About Nov. 30, 1921.

Won't Dicker Over French Debt

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Washington, March 17.—The United States government today turned down a request from France for establishment of an "international coordinating agency" in this country for the adjustment of war debts and reparations.

The request, it was revealed, was originally made to this government in November, 1923, by Premier Poincare, in a note transmitted through the French embassy here, and the American refusal was transmitted to the French government only this afternoon by Secretary of State Hughes after it had been determined that nothing could be accomplished by creating such a debt clearing house here under the direction of the world war debt funding commission.

Without exaggerating, Pythian Hall, corner of Broadway and Thomas street, has one of the prettiest decorated halls at the present time, to be found in this city, it having been decorated for a great social event, held by the Pythians and their many friends, and it is needless to say, the affair was a grand success, every one going to their homes well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Pani Zucca's singing orchestra made a great hit at the entertainment, and their dance music was loudly applauded by the dancers and spectators. A great many of Clinton Commandery, No. 16, P. O. S. of A., are also members of the K. of P. and the Pythians have very kindly consented to leave the handsome decorations that now adorn the walls of Pythian Hall remain on the wall until after Tuesday evening, March 18, the evening that Clinton Commandery, No. 16, P. O. S. of A. holds their Patriotic dance. The committee for this dance have also been fortunate in securing Pani Zucca's famous singing orchestra for this occasion. Dancing will begin early and there will be no loss of time. Paul says he will keep the pictures on the go.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—Bribery of former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall by Edward L. Doheny was charged here today by the government in filing a suit in the federal court to cancel the California oil leases of the Pan-American Petroleum Company, obtained through Fall.

On the basis of testimony brought out in the senate's investigation in Washington the government's counsel, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, declared that Doheny and Fall conspired to defraud the United States through the leases and that Doheny paid Fall $100,000 for his services in giving the Pan-American Company, of which Doheny is president, control over the oil bearing lands in naval reserve number 1.

As in the suit filed last week in Cheyenne, Wyoming, to cancel the Teapot Dome lease to Harry F. Sinclair, the government based its charge of illegality of the transaction on the ground that the executive order issued by the late President Harding on May 31, 1921, to give the secretary of the interior control of certain oil lands, was without legal authority because it was obtained by Fall through representations which were "false and untrue."

"The representations made by Fall," the government bill said, "were to the effect that said order was proper, necessary and for the best interests of the government of the United States, and the public, all of which representations were false, fraudulent and untrue, and were at the time known to Fall as false and untrue, and were made by Fall not in good faith and for the benefit of the public interest but for the unlawful purpose of enabling him to effect a fraudulent transfer of rights in said lands to defendants."

"Subsequent to the making of the said order Fall and Doheny did combine, confederate and conspire to defraud the United States."

"Pursuant to said conspiracy it was agreed and arranged between Fall and Doheny that in the event certain rights were created in defendants, Fall was to receive certain rewards from Doheny, and he did in fact receive certain rewards from Doheny in consideration for his unlawful conduct in the furtherance of said conspiracy."

"On or about November 30, 1921, in furtherance of the conspiracy between Fall and Doheny, Doheny did pay unto Fall that certain reward theretofore promised him, to wit, the sum of $100,000 lawful money of the United States of America."

With respect to the contract under which Doheny was to construct fuel oil storage facilities at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, for the navy department in return for oil taken from the California lease the government charged that this agreement was negotiated and consummated in such a way that competitive bidding was impossible, "pursuant to the conspiracy above set forth."

After citing its case against the Pan-American Petroleum Company, government counsel asked the court to take the following steps to restore the oil lands to the government:

1. Issue a temporary injunction stopping all operations under the Doheny lease of December 11, 1922.

2. Appoint a receiver to control the property pending the litigation.

3. Grant a final injunction barring all officials and employees of the company from trespassing on the naval reserve.

4. Enter a decree nullifying the Doheny leases and agreements with Fall.

5. Order Doheny to deliver the leases and agreements to the government for cancellation.

6. Entering a decree compelling the Pan-American Company to account for all oil and other minerals it has taken from the reserve.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BOWEN

CHICKEN CHATTER

"Cluck, cluck," said Mother Hen. "It is the springtime and my little ones will soon be bursting out of their shells."

"Such dear little soft chicken pets as they will be," Cluck, cluck," said Mother Hen. "I am getting most excited."

"No one must annoy me. I want to give all my time and attention to the little brood."

In a very short time the little brood was following around after Mother Hen.

And a fine little brood she had!

"Such soft yellow down coats as my darlings have," said Mother Hen.

"And you're a beautiful Mother Hen," they said.

Mother Hen gave a funny hen grin as much as to say:

"I've never been famous for my hen beauty but I'm glad my chickens think I'm beautiful. That shows what love will do. They love me and want to stick close to me, and they think I'm beautiful."

"Oh well, oh well, it is nice to have some think you're beautiful even if they're looking at you with eyes of love rather than eyes that see things just exactly as they are."

"My little darlings," Mother Hen said aloud. "So soft and dear you look, and you will follow me about and I will show you the things you must do."

"You must scratch in the ground for food. You will be given grain and seeds but always look for more."

"You must eat and grow strong."

"And you never have to think much beyond that. Run out of the way if anything seems to be coming dangerously near to you."

"The center of the road is never a wise place for any chicken to be, but I forget this rule myself very often. So probably you will, too."

"But stay near Mother Hen and she will help you."

"Peep, peep," said the little chickens, "we will do that."

"You don't have to study to be famous. You don't have to do much of anything."

"You can wander about, scratching the ground here and there, and always rushing to the farmer when he comes out with any dish or pan or pail that looks as though food might be in it."

"Life will be easy for you."

"Of course, when you outgrow your dear little baby looks you will be at the awkward age in chicken circles when you're neither cunning, nor big and handsome."

"But do not let that worry you."

"Peep, peep," said the little chickens, "we won't."

"Cackle, cackle, cackle, cackle," said Mother Hen. "What a fine brood I have! Never could there be a finer brood!"

And the little chickens stuck close to their mother and said:

"Peep, peep, mother, what a dear mother hen we have."

"Peep, peep, peep, peep, that's the truth, dear mother hen."

And Mother Hen thought the chicken chatter was very sweet, very sweet, indeed!

The Mystery

Elizabeth came to school one day in a state of suppressed excitement. Going straight to the teacher's desk, she exclaimed exultantly:

"I've got a new little sister!"

"How very nice," replied the teacher.

"Yes," said Elizabeth, "but this is only a half-sister."

"Why, that doesn't make any difference, does it?"

"No, but I never can understand where the other half is."—Harper's Magazine.

A Bald Fact

Bessie, age four years, who was bedridden by her mother, caught sight of a bald-headed man.

"O, mother," she exclaimed in high shrill tones, "just see that man! He hasn't a hair on his head. Isn't it sad?"

"Hush!" replied her mother. "He will hear you."

"O," replied Bessie in subdued tones, "doesn't he know it?—Everybody's Magazine."

WINTER SPECIALTIES

The fireless cooker is just as useful for the busy housewife in the winter as in the summer.

A meal may be prepared, put to cook and left for several hours with no further attention. If a dish needs to simmer one hot stone placed in the bottom of the cooker will be sufficient; for faster cooking, place another on top of the dish.

To begin with the beginning, a good, substantial breakfast is needed to sustain one until the noonday meal.

A dish of cereal, with top milk or thin cream, following a dish of prunes or a sweet orange then a dish of cakes, a cup of coffee for the grownups and a glass of milk for the children.

Whole wheat right from the farm, if carefully washed and cooked a long time to bring out the flavor, is an ideal breakfast dish. It may be slightly ground, if preferred, but should be soaked over night and cooked by slow heat in the fireless all day, or until perfectly tender.

Backabout griddle cakes are always enjoyed, if well made. To prepare them take a yeast cake, dissolved in water, using a pint; add enough buckwheat flour to make a rather thick batter; add salt to taste; beat well and set away early in the morning.

Set in a warm place at night, and in the morning remove a cupful or more for a starter for the next day; add more water and buckwheat and set away until night. The remainder left in the mixing bowl is used for the morning's cake. Add enough sour milk to make a thin batter; add soda and heat well, then fry as usual. Use all of the batter, as the soda and sour milk will soon spoil the flavor.

A bit of sausage or bacon, or a thin slice of ham is always an acceptable breakfast meat, and is especially good with griddle cakes.

For a winter dinner or luncheon, or even a supper on a cold night, there is nothing more filling and tasty than a good, hot chowder.

Indians, Dogs and Horses

The Indians had dogs, but not horses. The white men came. The Indian dog was little different from the dog wolf from which it is supposed to have sprung. Eskimos were using dogs for transportation when the first men arrived. Though fossils of a forerunner of the horse have been found in America, it is now generally believed that these animals became extinct many thousands of years ago and that all horses used by the Indians were descendants of Spanish horses. Cortez brought horses to Mexico and De Soto is known to have introduced a large number of horses to the Texas border.

Change in Ocean Bed

A change in level in the bed of the Atlantic between Capetown and St. Helena was once reported by the Eastern Telegraph company. One of their cable repair ships found a depth of three-quarters of a mile at a place where the chart showed a depth of three miles when the cable was laid in 1880. Changes of level of the ocean floor have often been brought to light by soundings, but the actual rise or fall is reckoned in a few feet or fathoms, and nothing of such a stupendous character as a change of more than two miles has ever been established by surveys.

Daughter of the Sun

In classic mythology, Circe was the daughter of Helios (the Sun) and Perse. She was a famous sorceress, and lived in the island of Aea, surrounded by numbers of persons whom she had changed by her incantations into animal forms. When Ulysses, in the course of his wanderings after the fall of Troy, reached this island, the enchantress turned twenty-two of his companions into wine; but Ulysses, through the influence of an herb given him by Mercury, sought out the sorceress, remained unharmed by her spells, and forced her to restore his comrades to their original condition.

LEGISLATORS AS HOME-KEEPERS

For years progressive women have been resenting the dictum that their place is in the home, but a brilliant man recently remarked, once out of the home the worth-while ones all turn instinctively to home affairs.

There's the case, for instance, of the first woman in the Texas legislature.

When Edith Willmams took her seat last winter there was a wall of custom, an impassable barrier between her, "the woman messing in politics," and the rest of the legislators. It took just three weeks of her sunny disposition and calm determination to do her work well to dissipate the misapprehension. What did she do and how did she do it?

It seems a bit absurd to chronicle this first, but she did not try to stop the men members from their immemorial privileges of smoking and putting their feet on their desks. If she kept on being feminine, she felt, she owed it to the men not to interfere with their being masculine.

She brought in the bills on which she had won her campaign by a majority of 17,000, and gained solid support for them. To accomplish this so quickly she must have had good preparation, you say. She had.

As the wife of a lawyer, she grew interested while her three children were at school in the difficulty of having good schools without good school laws. She took up the study of law with her husband, who later died, so that her five years of active law practice was necessary as well as good training.

Of the four hundred cases she tried, with the loss of only two, a large proportion dealt with women and children. Mrs. Willmams successfully escaped being swamped in divorce cases, with which the Dallas courts are choked. But the very necessity drove her to put in as one of her first legislative bills, one for the establishment of a domestic relations court. Her other bills were to modify the mothers' pension law, to raise the compulsory school attendance age to eighteen, and to require a health certificate from both persons before issuance of a marriage license. Years of experience as a member of the "third house," or unpaid lobbyist for welfare measures, have given her knowledge of how to gain support from her fellow legislators. Even her opponents now acknowledge that she can honestly love her home first, and yet make a brilliant success as a legislator.

THE SIMILARITY BETWEEN WATER AND SAND COSTUMES.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

It was with patience and fortitude that the bad weather down south was accepted, which denied much knowledge of what was the approved thing in bathing suits. As day following day, and society sat huddled on the sands in furs, the display of bathing suits was natural of little consequence. The appearance of topcoats and furs in such a setting was so unusual, that interest was focused on them.

However, as the weather gradually settled down to its accustomed good behavior, more and more smart bathing suits were to be seen. They ran the gamut of style ideas, almost without exception, uniting in their purpose to be short and to show a considerable length of pantaloons beneath.

The tunic idea prevails not only in the Chinese type, although some light colors in the endeavor to get away from the conservatism of all black. In black, crepes bordered with chenille, brocade effects and alternating black satin and dull blacks are worn.

A bright Shanghai bathing suit made with no sleeves and a turnover white collar has white pearl buttons down the front and a white leather belt.

There are many printed crepe bathing suits and a number of gay plaid taffetas, plaid being also much in use for the beach blanket, which is a rival to the circular beachcape or the oblong Terry cloth or other material.

Rubberized moire silk is the choice of several smart women for these capes, and one well-known society woman selected a brilliant pink moire for her cape, her black and white pencil striped taffeta bathing suit having a wide band made of rose, blue and green ribbon around the edge of the skirt.

Bathing suits have either no sleeves at all or long fitted ones, and predicted that the beach would be overrun with mandarin effects. Tunic is the thing and many of the smartest suits are identical with the garcon dress, long sleeves, pinaflore collar and all, but, of course, with trousers instead of skirts.

Pearl buttons and leather belts are not omitted from the briny deep and alpaca is accepted again, especially in light colors such as gray, sand, green and blue. While there are more bathing suits worn this year than last, there are far fewer gingham and printed cottons, the gingham checks being presented in taffeta and the prints in crepe.

In bathing suits, as in everything worn, the trend appears to be toward in either event they are cut to the base of the neck.

The monogram idea persists in wool jersey suits of which type there are many. There are oblong blankets monogrammed at one corner and frequently bound.

There is no discounting the importance or comfort of the knitted suits, but it is more often seen at Miami and the less formal places than at Palm Beach, which has rather a strict beach censorship, and until this season the censor has insisted on dark stockings. This year, gray, cornhusk, cinnamon and even nude stockings are worn with brilliant purples and reds.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 17, 1924.

Both Chicago and Philadelphia claim to be in possession of the coat in which Lincoln was shot, but modestly forbids our politicians to dispute possession of his shoes or mantle.

Investigation is the order of the day. The report comes that the Department of Justice is quietly investigating the Senators who voted to investigate the department's head.

A New York clergyman wants an all-American Bible with heroines of the Jane Addams type substituted for those originally figuring therein. Anything may be expected of some of those New York clergymen.

When a friend of her husband told a smutty story in her home a Cleveland woman hit him with a flatiron and was arrested for assault. Of course, a "perfect lady" would have been content to rise and leave the room in a silence more eloquent than words or blows, but the judge seemed not without admiration for this flatiron heroine, for he promptly discharged her.

DRASTIC DOINGS IN TURKEY.

It appears that the ladies of the Caliph's harem in Constantinople are "greatly disturbed" and his chief eunuch is "refusing food" with good reason, although fasting is scarcely a paying method of protest. The bill before the national assembly at Angora not only abolishes the religious head of the Moslem world, but provides for the permanent expulsion of all members of the Caliph's family, male and female, from Turkish territory within ten days as well as forfeiture by them of citizenship. Mustafa Kemal, president of Turkey, is a determined modernist, and in a recent speech he declared that it was imperative to westernize the government of Turkey and deliver its people from the spirit of slavish attachment to tradition, which, he said, preyed upon them like a nightmare and paralyzed their initiative.

He seems to have sounded the death knell of harems, eunuchs, and even the Caliphate itself. He and the Nationalists have been warned that to do away with the latter would reduce Turkey from its proud position as head of the Moslem world to the level of a third-class nation of a few million people of no great wealth or military power. But Kemal and the new Turks are said to consider no price too high to pay in order to secure a really modern republic free from religious entanglements and thoroughly emancipated from the chains of tradition. It is easy to imagine the state of mind among conservative old-fashioned Turks, as well as the shock to the Mohammedan world generally. Whether such sudden and startling changes will be sustained, whether the new spirit can triumph over both tradition and the opposition of political rivals, obviously remains to be seen.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE RESULTS.

It may be rather soon to judge of the results of woman suffrage, but what amounts to this is to be found in two current magazine articles. Writing in the February Atlantic Monthly, and referring, not to the exceptional few, but to women in general, Mrs. A. R. Martin, after wide inquiry in many parts of the country, says: "I am forced to conclude that, among American women the world over, apart from those few disinterestedly thoughtful and those directly concerned, there is a lack of interest in public affairs, an apathy, an absence of concern, not so much in the issue at hand as in the principle behind it." Writing on the same subject in the March issue of the Century Magazine, Charles Edward Russell sounds an even more discouraging note. He finds that practically there is no noticeable result of woman suffrage, neither the predicted disasters nor the expected benefits having come to pass. "Nothing has been changed," he says. "Except that the number of docile ballot droppers has approximately been doubled." One of the notable discoveries is that women will not vote for women. The one woman Congress was elected "out of respect to her late husband." Of the 600 members of state legislatures, only 63 are women. "Even the most ardent woman suffragist," he writes, "like the humble presenter of these facts, is forced to admit that so far in public affairs the ennobling influence of womanhood is still a matter of faith." He finds, however, that in spite of—some might say in consequence of—their lack of interest in politics, women are still as feminine, gentle and lovable as ever. Lack of any change in this particular is obviously matter for general congratulation.

That Body of Yours

DIFFERENT RESULTS FROM SAME SYSTEM.

Physicians are sometimes asked to explain why it is that two people who will arrange to eat exactly the same amount and kind of food, to do the same amount of work, and get the same amount of rest, will show such a difference in the amount of weight increase in one month's time. One will show an increase of a half pound or even less, the other an increase of from seven to ten pounds.

What is the explanation?
It is very simple.

In the case of the one who increased greatly in weight, it means that his tissues will take in and manufacture into flesh a certain quantity of food. With the other it means that his tissues will not take in, don't want it in fact, and it goes out of the body unused.

I am speaking now of normal types.

As you know where the thyroid gland is not secreting sufficiently, fat is not burned up, and is thus deposited all over the body.

Where the thyroid secretes too much the tissues are burned up, and extreme thinness is so often seen.

But in normal individuals the explanation is as above stated.

Now what is the suggestion?

Well, if it were war time and food conservation were necessary, it certainly would be the proper thing for them both to cut down their entire food supply.

One because his food was only depositing fat, and the other because his system didn't need it, and it was thrown out of the body unused.

And so even if it were not war time it would be well for them to cut down their food supply.

But the better plan would be to increase their working or exercising periods and so use up the material.

What would happen?

The fat individual would decrease in weight because the fat would be burned up by exercise. You take a real athlete. When he stops training he puts on some weight. A good sign you see. His body will take care of a few extra pounds.

The thin person by working up exercising will manufacture more flesh, not fat but real muscle, and his weight will actually increase.

The extra food taken in really becomes a part of him, instead of passing through undigested.

And so the old saying that exercises makes the fat person lose weight, and the thin person increase in weight, is an absolute fact.

And the big point about it is that they are both all the stronger physically for it. One by losing his fat and increasing his muscle, and the other from the muscle increase itself.

As to the improvement in the general health itself, that goes without saying.

HOW ENGLAND MANUFACTURES MILLIONS OF NEEDLES.

There are many huge factories in such towns as Birmingham, Redditch and Studley where needles are manufactured in millions of millions. Process after process is carried through with infinite care and trouble before bulk metal is transformed into highly-polished needles. Briefly the method is as follows:

First the metal is "pulled" into wire varying in thickness according to the needles required—very thin wire for beading needles and thick wire for tapestry needles. The wire is cut into lengths equaling the length of two finished needles.

Then the center of each length is pressed flat to the extent of one-sixteenth of an inch or more. This process is governed by the kind of needles in course of manufacture, as the flattened parts will eventually be the heads of the completed articles.

The "eyes" are made next, holes being punched on either side of the pressed portions. The lengths are pointed at the ends and are then cut into halves; thus two needles are made from each piece of wire.

Heat is applied to temper the steel, after which the needles are somewhat blackened. To clean them they are placed in large drums containing gritty substances. The drums revolve and the metal is rubbed free from impurities by friction. The needles are removed from one drum and replaced in another containing a much finer grit, until eventually they merge highly polished.—London Tit-Bits.

How Steel Is Joined

The man with the mask whom you occasionally see beside the tracks is melting a stick of the hardest kind of Bessemer steel down into the crack formed by the ends of the rails made of manganese steel. He is employing the electric current secured from the overhead trolley (or the underground one, as the case may be) and the rail. As the steel rod he holds is brought in contact with the rail, the result is that the two grades of steel, in the rail and the melted rod, are combined in a perfect weld.

The rail is then ground off to smooth the joint and the work is complete. The operator wears a pair of heavy rubber gloves and dry shoes to prevent the current from passing through his arms and body to the ground. In order to protect his eyes he wears a mask fitted with orange-colored windows.

Rails may be welded by this process in less than five minutes and without the necessity of tearing up the pavement around the rails and stopping traffic.—New York Herald.

How Word Lofer Originated

It is said that an old Dutchman settled in New York and acquired a large fortune. A young American fell in love with the old man's only daughter, but her father forbade him the house. Nevertheless, encouraged by the daughter, the young man continued to frequent the premises. Whenever the father would see him he would say to his daughter: "There is that 'lofer' of yours, the idle, good-for-nothing, etc." From this, any idle man, hanging about, came to be called a "lofer." How the letter "a" got into the word is not known.

How Lanes Became Alleys

After the Civil war it was necessary to house the great number of soldiers left in Washington. The system of city squares, with lanes veining the center of each square between the back yards, made it possible for wooden barracks to be built in the back-yard space. When the soldiers left the barracks were taken over by thousands of negroes, who had come to Washington to seek government aid. As domestic servants were in demand, many of the negroes stayed. Small houses soon replaced the barracks and the lanes became alleys.

How to Get Rid of Glue

In regluing joints that have been previously glued, a good job cannot be done unless the old, hardened glue is removed entirely. In many cases it is extremely difficult to scrape off the glue. For instance, a piece often is split so that the surface presents an intricate series of ridges and hollows, which must fit together accurately. To clean off the glue on such a joint use a stiff brush—an old nail-brush will do—and hot water. This will do the work effectively and leave the surface in the best possible condition for regluing. Allow the wood to become thoroughly dry before making new joint.—Popular Mechanics.

Knot and Mile

The statute knot contains 6,082.66 feet, the British admiralty knot, 6,080, while a mile contains 5,280 feet. The statute knot is determined as follows: The circumference of the earth is divided into 360 degrees, each degree containing sixty knots; therefore, there are 360 by 60 or 21,600 knots to the circumference. Twenty-one thousand six hundred divided into 131,885,456, the number of feet in the earth's circumference, gives 6,082.66 feet.

To Modify New Automobile Law

Wave of Protest Against Provision Compelling Owner to Carry Ownership Certificate With Him.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

A'LEANS, March 17.—Because of hundreds of protests, the provision in the automobile bill agreed upon by Governor Smith and Speaker Macchold, Republican leader of the assembly, which would require the owner of a car to carry with him at all times a certificate of ownership of the machine will probably be eliminated from the measure. It was learned at the capitol today.

Representatives of automobile clubs throughout the state are opposed to this provision in the bill. They are urging the legislators to draft a separate bill covering the certificate of ownership. The present auto bill is in danger of being defeated if this provision is not dropped, it was said.

Those opposed to the certificate of ownership provision are pointing to the fact that it has not been a success in the state of Pennsylvania. In some of the smaller states, where there are only a few automobiles compared to the 1,500,000 which are expected to be registered in this state next year, the certificate of ownership has been successful, however.

The automobile clubs and auto men in general approve of the two other important provisions in the present bills—to license the driver of every car in the state and create a state motor vehicle commissioner in the tax department with broad powers to revoke licenses.

The certificate of ownership provision was inserted in the bill with an idea of checking the stealing of motor cars. Persons who favor it contend that if a certificate of this kind had to be exchanged with every car, bought or sold, it would eliminate the chances for a thief to dispose of a stolen machine.

On the other hand, those who are opposing this provision, claim that if the present bill were enacted into law certificate of ownership companies would immediately be organized throughout the state. For a nominal sum, it is said, these companies would trace the ownership of any car if it were only necessary to have such a certificate for a new car that would be a simple thing, say those who are opposed to the proposal. But to trace the ownership of everyone of the million or more cars in the state, with some of them several years old, would be a hard task, and might work an injustice on an honest man who could be prohibited from operating his car unless he had such a certificate.

If this proposal was placed into a separate bill, then it could stand or fall on its own merits and would not outanger the passage of the more important bill.

With the exception of the 25 percent reduction in the personal income tax, which has passed both houses of the legislature and approved by the governor, the automobile bill is expected to be the most important of the enactments of the 1924 session.

WHITING WILLIAMS TO TALK FROM EXPERIENCE

Whiting Williams, who will be the last lecturer in the course being given by the Federation of Women's Clubs for the benefit of the Kingston City Library, will, on the evening of Wednesday, March 26, lecture on "Mainsprings of Men; What My Dick Turned up About People," at the high school auditorium. In 1919 Mr. Williams resigned his executive post with the Hydraulic Steel Company and entered the rank and file of the "floating" labor population. He put $25 in his pocket, assumed an alias and for seven months hunted and worked at jobs in America's coal mines, steel plants, round houses, etc. His findings and his way of putting them across to an audience at once created a nationwide demand for talks about his experiences, just as Kingston has secured him for this talk. During the summer of 1920 he labored in the coal mines, steel plants and ship yards of Great Britain. He spent the summer of 1920 as a common laborer in Germany, France and Belgium, and incidentally attended the second annual assembly of the League of Nations. Mr. Williams also saw both sides of the railroad strike in his own country a year ago, when he worked for a while as strike-breaker and later as a striker. Tickets for this lecture may be secured from members of the Federation of Women's Clubs or at the high school on the evening of the lecture.

HOME COUNTY MAGAZINE, APRIL NUMBER, IN MAILS

The April number of The Home County Magazine went in the mails Saturday. On the cover page is a fine half tone of the "Wedding of the Esopus and Schoharie creeks at Allaben" by the completion of the longest tunnel in the world. There is a fine descriptive article on the "Early Days Under the White Tops" is continued. Random Notes of the Valley of the Hudson tell of the occupation of the valley at the coming of the white settlers. The counties are covered in the usual interesting manner. "Tell the World" is the title of an editorial which shows that the Hudson Valley never tells of its vast undertakings. In the Ulster section there is a letter describing the Kelland murder of nearly forty years ago.

A Perfect Skin

No Blackheads, no blemishes ever

By Edna Wallace Hopper

None is a perfect skin—a skin which young girls envy. After 40 years as a stage star, I look like a girl of 19.

I owe all this to a rich, ambitious mother. She searched the world for methods to multiply my beauty and to keep her youth. Those helps made me a famous beauty, and they keep me a beauty still.

Now I have arranged so every girl and woman may have those identical helps. Thus I hope to bring to millions the benefits I got.

My Facial Youth

One is a liquid cleanser which I call my Facial Youth. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. So it cannot grow hair on the face. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin.

It simply cleanses the skin to the depths, penetrates every pore. When I wipe it off, all the dirt and grime, all that clogs the skin comes with it.

Clean the skin in the best other way you know. My Facial Youth will

THE OFFICE CAT

By Janius

A man doesn't have to have a million dollars to live comfortably these days. He can do it if he has only $999,999.99.

An uphill journey early in life strengthens your staying power.

To the rest of us it's a new and popular form of entertainment, but to the negro, it's only "Moah Junk."

The man who leaves his overcoat in the church vestibule has true Christian faith.

An experienced wife is one who keeps still and provides noble rations when her husband has a pouring spell.

Parents give their children some weird names, but we never heard of any being so crazy as to name their kids after Pullman cars.

Kisses aren't measured by clock ticks, but by heart beats.

The Best Yet.

A Kingston business man, upon leaving his office, put out a card saying he'd be back at three o'clock, and then finding he'd forgotten something, returned to his office, read the notice on the door, and sat down on the stairs to wait until three o'clock.

People who have been bothered to death by insurance men may enjoy reading that one has been put in jail at Akron, O.

Chivalry has been described as the noble quality in a man that makes him considerate of any woman who is beautiful and isn't married to him.

At 16 he loves a woman of 30; at 40 he prefers a girl of 20; at 60 anything over 15 seems shopworn.

When they teach a person to drive a car they are very careful to instruct them as to the starting and STOPPING but when they teach a kid to talk they forget all about the importance of the use of the brake.

One Benefit Assured.

Though congress may be busy now, it won't neglect the need of those who swing a helpful plough. And sign for garden seed.

The reason why not so many women are running for office is they can't throw their hats into the ring with the abandon men can.

ROSENDALE

Rosendale, March 15.—The village election will be held in the Firemen's Hall on Tuesday, March 18, from 1 to 5 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmitt are visiting relatives in the city. They left on Saturday last.

Miss Anna McGinn, who has been spending a few weeks with her sister and family in Hoboken, New Jersey, has returned to her home in this village.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Leferer of this village were guests of relatives in Bloomingville on Sunday last.

Miss Weiss from New York city is spending some time with her parents in this village.

Silas Christina, who has been confined to his home the past week, suffering from a nervous breakdown, is somewhat improved. His many friends in this village all hope he may soon be able to be out again.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Krom of Rifton were guests of relatives in this place the past Sunday.

The domino party held on Thursday afternoon at the lecture room by the ladies of the Reformed church was much enjoyed by all who attended. The first prize, a linen dolly given to the lady who had the highest points was won by Mrs. Abram Quick and Mrs. Kostakie received the consolation prize, a fire shovel, with a neat card attached bearing the inscription, "Schuffe Up." During the afternoon sandwiches, cake and coffee was served. The affair was so much enjoyed by all that the ladies had decided to hold another at the same place on Thursday afternoon, March 27 from 2 to 5 p. m. Everybody welcome.

Howard Stearns has been called to Hudson on account of the death of his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wesp celebrated their eighth wedding anniversary on Saturday evening by entertaining a number of their friends. Games and music were enjoyed by all present. The party broke up at midnight and all wished Mr. and Mrs. Wesp many more years of happy wedded bliss.

Mrs. Charles Ten Hagen and Mrs. Harry Ten Hagen and little Donald spent one day the past week with relatives in Kingston.

Alan Mackenzie was removed to the Kingston Hospital on Tuesday evening, where an operation for gall stones was performed on Wednesday. The operation was successful and Mr. Mackenzie is doing as well as can be expected.

Wilbur J. Mohl of Poughkeepsie paid friends in this village a visit on Wednesday. Mr. Mohl was manager of the Kouski factory in the village a number of years and has many friends who were glad to welcome him here.

Wolper Back In Tannersville

Irving Wolper, aged 19 years, of New York, who was brought back from Buffalo by Corporal Leslie Dimmick, of the state troopers, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Baker at Tannersville, Thursday afternoon last on a charge of forgery in the second degree, and was committed to the Greene county jail until March 20 for an examination in the case. A charge of grand larceny is likely to be placed against him in addition. Wolper on March 6 passed a $500 check on the Corn Exchange Bank of New York and drove off in a Buick car owned by William McGrath, the distributor of Buick cars, who has a salesroom on Clinton avenue in this city.

MODERN GOWN NOT

UNLIKE UNDERGARMENT (By Eleanor Gunn.)

The resemblance between the modern gown and a man's undershirt—its binding, buttons and general severity of detail, is marked. Silk crepes and flat heavy silks and silk shirtings are all made on these lines, pearl buttons carrying out the similarity. The boyish type is now a recognized fashion factor, the only stumbling block to its further success being a potential overpopularity. This, however, is not likely to occur, since it is an unobtrusive type, and certainly not monotonous.

One stylist at Palm Beach voiced the opinion that striped silks of the shirting type were the biggest and most important discovery in the line of fashions represented at this resort. Whether or not it is the biggest, it is certainly one of the most important items. Even Lanvin, who goes in for something quite opposed to severity, compromises by making rood use of pockets in her latest collection, although Lanvin pockets are more pouch-like in effect than those of the tailored vest, which is typical of the French woman's tailored costume.

A woman appeared on the sands at Palm Beach wearing a black and white double-breasted cross-bar woad vest fastening with four buttons, the front in pointed effect. The remarkable feature of her costume was the fact that she wore a silk shirt and skirt, but was minus her coat—the unparadoxical in nature—applauded in woman—for she was mentally applauded by the several "in the know" of coming fashions.

Windsor ties, four-in-hands, and bows of ribbon at the neckline, accent the boyish note, and it looks as though one must continue to hunt to attain anything faintly approaching the boyish figure.

First American Shoemaker

The first recorded American shoemaker was Thomas Baird, who arrived on the second voyage of the Mayflower in 1620. He was under contract with the Plymouth company to make shoes for the colonists. One Philip Kirtland, a Welshman, came to Lynn, Mass., in 1636, and John Adams Dagg, a celebrated shoemaker, settled there in 1750; so Lynn got an early start in the industry for which it is now famous.

New York Specialist

Gives Great Relief to Many Sever Cases After Failure of Local Doctors.

Dr. Swinburne, Specialist, Come to Kingston Every Wednesday and Will Examine All Cases Free at 16 Clinton Avenue.

The doctor is a specialist in Stomach, Liver and Intestinal Diseases and the resulting complications of headache, bilious vomiting, spells, gall stones or jaundice. In his practice he has remarkable success in giving relief to patients after failure of other physicians or drugless treatments. Nine-tenths of all diseases are caused by a deranged stomach, and many patients with chronic ailments can obtain relief by improving the action of the digestive system. No matter what your trouble may be—you should call to see the doctor and obtain his advice.

Rheumatism Relieved by Treating the Stomach

Mr. Henry Cole, a fireman, was so badly crippled from rheumatism that he had to give up work, and could get around only with the aid of crutches. He had treated with a number of doctors without obtaining any relief, until he became much discouraged and thought there was no hope for him. His attention was called to a similar case where Dr. Swinburne had produced wonderful results in relieving patients with rheumatic trouble by giving treatment to cure the stomach of the terrible acidity, and stop the accumulation of acid in the blood, and Mr. Cole decided to make one more effort to obtain relief. To his great astonishment and joy, he found after one month's treatment he had no further need for the crutches, and after three months he was entirely relieved and was enjoying perfect health.

New Electronic Treatment

Dr. Swinburne now has the most improved electronic machine at 163 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, N. Y., and a trained assistant gives the new Electronic treatment under the Doctor's direction. This new treatment is the very latest method of eradicating disease. It is based on the Abram's discovery that the blood of man carries a record of every exchange in his body and by his discovery it is now possible to determine the exact condition of patient by examination of a few drops of blood.

Many patients suffering from chronic diseases can now obtain relief and the enjoyment of life; and even in cases of cancer, morbid growth, enlarged glands, lung diseases or abscess conditions the results have been remarkable. In all these troubles the treatment reaches the blood condition and offers much better prospects of a cure than surgery, for when a growth is removed with the knife it so often returns because the blood was not treated to control the disease. Next in the number of severe troubles where the Electronic Treatment proves a great help to humanity include nervous conditions, neuritis, neurasthenia, paralysis, rheumatism and arthritis, and often in just a few treatments, patients obtain wonderful relief.

If you are suffering from any trouble that your family doctor does not cure, you should investigate this new method of treatment. Call for free information. Wednesday of each week, 9 a. m. to 12 m. 1 to 5 and 6:30 to 8 p. m., at 163 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, N. Y., or write for folder sent free on request.

Getting Skinnier Every Day

Something Must be Done, and Done Darn Quick, Too.

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women, too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and feels fine.

We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh producing vitamins, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste, and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are as easy to take as candy, and if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will give you your money back—and only 50 cents a box. Ask any live pharmacist anywhere.

EAT WELL, SLEEP WELL, FEEL WELL

WHAT a different world this would be if you had a good appetite, slept well every night and jumped out of bed in the morning feeling fit for a big day's work.

Before you decide that those happy days are gone forever, give Gude's Pepto-Mangan a trial. Thousands of others have found that it so enriched their blood and built up their strength that they felt and looked younger and enjoyed life to the full.

Your druggist has Gude's, in both liquid and tablets. Get it today.

Cosgrave Asks Aid of All Irish

Restoring Peace and Prosperity in Erin—Ulster Men Are Included.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Dublin, March 17.—President William T. Cosgrave today addressed through International News Service a message to all Irishmen and women throughout the world appealing to them to assist in establishing peace and unity throughout the Free State. The message follows:

"In honoring St. Patrick's Day Irishmen and women proclaim once more the unity of their race of which St. Patrick is the symbol. Upon this recurrence of his festival let us pray that the spirit of St. Patrick's teachings may form our deliberations and regulate our actions so that the differences of opinion may always be discussed without rancor, as they may be adjusted without violence.

Only thus can we hope that the wounds that have been inflicted upon our country can be healed. Now that the heat of conflict has abated, those who from honest motives opposed the government without hindrance from the government, should now be convinced of the necessity of dropping their attitude of hostility and of putting their shoulders to the wheel, working with their fellow countrymen for the regeneration and rebuilding of the nation. To all of such we extend a welcoming hand.

"We extend the hand of welcome also to our separated countrymen in the northeast in the hope that mutual understanding of the past may be shared and that a real community of interests and of spirit may be realized and brought into effect. To them we speak once more in the words of the poet, 'We are one at heart if you be Ireland's friend; there are but two parties in the end.'"

By "countrymen in the northeast" President Cosgrave referred to the residents of Ulster province who refused to accept the Free State and have their own independent government.

MOTHER CAT DIES IN SAVING HER KITTENS

By Telegram to The Freeman. Buffalo, N. Y., March 17.—Made courageous by mother love, a common cat last night met death in a fire in the lower flat, at number 357 Sycamore street, and by doing so succeeded in saving the lives of her three kittens. The fire was a trivial one. When fire fighters had extinguished the flames, Battalion Chief James Moran of the second battalion, discovered in the kitchen a box containing the lifeless body of the mother cat stretched over three squawling kittens. The fire chief carried the box into the yard, but fresh air failed to revive the mother. Smoke had suffocated her while she was protecting her kittens from fire.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Gibraltar, March 17.—Violent gales raged today over the western part of the Mediterranean, imperiling shipping.

Communication between Melilla, Spanish military headquarters on the Moroccan battle front, and outposts were cut off by fog. Provisioning of Spanish outposts has been temporarily halted.

Auto Hit Wagon, Two Were Hurt

Louis Black, a milk dealer of Ulster Park reported to police headquarters Sunday evening that about 8:45 o'clock that evening while driving up the Sleighsburg hill with his daughter the wagon was struck by the rear of the auto of Philip Ryan of Sleighsburg.

The force of the impact was such that the wagon was wrecked, the harness broken, losing the horse which ran away and was caught later in Port Ewen, and hurling Black and his daughter out of the wrecked wagon.

Mr. Black and his daughter escaped with bruises and a shaking up but were able to proceed to their home after the accident.

Man Dies in Brooklyn Fire

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, March 17.—One man is believed to have lost his life in a fire which early destroyed a five story loft building in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn, causing damage estimated at $200,000.

The building was occupied by Smith's Overall Company, the Souder Furniture Company, Portmoy Brothers & Sapper, blouse makers, Rybenstein Brothers, Joseph Leitz, men's clothing, and a pool hall, operated by Larus Weinstein.

Two garages in adjoining buildings were also destroyed. The man believed to have lost his life was reported to have been on watch in the overall factory on the fifth floor when the blaze was discovered.

Fanned by back drafts the fire ate its way from the basement to roof before the arrival of firemen. Five alarms were sounded.

Trolley wires, on lines each side of the loft building, melted in the heat. Water pouring into underground electrical conduits plunged the district into darkness. The southern wall of the building cracked and fell.

Several firemen were overcome by smoke. Several hundred families in nearby tenements fled to the street as the flame spread.

It Works Both Ways

A farmer driving along a country road was thus accosted by a young man:

"Hello, Reuben! Give me a lift to Boontown, will you?"

The young man climbed up and begged the time with lively chatter. After a few miles had been traveled, he said:

"It's quite a distance to Boontown, isn't it?"

"Quite a distance," answered the farmer.

After a few more miles the young man asked: "Say, farmer, how far is it to Boontown, anyway?"

"Well," replied the farmer, "keepin' right on the way you're goin' now, I should say it would be about twenty-five thousand miles or so; but if you wanted to get out and walk back, it wouldn't be very much more than ten miles."

Not Prodigal Enough

In many parts of Mexico hot springs and cold springs are found side by side. One can see native women boiling clothes in a hot spring, rubbing them on a flat rock and rinsing them in a clear cold spring.

A visitor watched this process for some time and then said:

"I suppose the natives think old Mother Nature is pretty generous, eh?"

"No, señor," responded his host. "There is much grumbling because she supplies no soap."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Family or Social Wage

The law passed in France last year providing an annual allowance of 90 francs ($13.37 par) for each child that is under thirteen years of age in excess of three children in French families is proving popular. This allowance will be granted to all children up to sixteen years of age if the children are still in school, apprenticed or invalided or incurably ill. The departments of the commune may increase this allowance from their funds if they desire. These allowances are now termed the "family or social wage."

Another Case

Johnson—So her father didn't favor your calling on his only daughter?

Tillery—I should say not. He came into the parlor and said: "Young man, it's time my daughter retired and time you went home—and you need not be in any hurry to call again."

Johnson—He did?

Tillery—Yes, he did. Now what would you call such conduct.

Johnson—Contempt of court.

How Warships Are Coaled

Naval vessels may be coaled from colliers from coaling stations, such as those at San Juan, Porto Rico; Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, Pago Pago, Samoa; Cavite, near Manila, and Guam; from coal "piles" which are maintained at several points in Alaska; or by purchasing it wherever it may be bought, in case of emergency.

Work of Pocahontas

Pocahontas belonged to the Wahun-Son-Cook tribe, of which her father was chief. She warned the English of the attacks of the Indians and furnished food to the famishing colonists, but it is the rescue story of Capt. John Smith for which she is chiefly remembered.

Unlucky Wedding Day

In Mexico no sensitive girl would consent to be married on a Tuesday, as that is believed to be the unluckiest day of the week for weddings.

Scandal!

In every walk of society the restless spirit of our Jazz Age breeds the poison flower of scandal.

Where are we drifting? Where do the loose standards of morality, the unrestrained freedom, the lust for reckless pleasures lead us?

The finger of scandal ferrets out the hidden secrets of society—the front page flaunts the intimate details of amazing amours, furious flirtations that are carried on by idle wives, by dissatisfied husbands, by the scoundrels who prey on beautiful women.

Marshall Neilan has brought to the screen a frank and fearless exposition of modern life. He has turned the searchlight of truth on the follies and extravagances of society. It is one of the most daring and thrilling photoplays that the screen has ever offered.

W. C. DeWitt Not Retired

William C. De Witt, who transferred the supplies and office of postmaster of the city to Walter P. Crane at the close of business Saturday night, was busy this morning about town calling on his friends in the interests of De Witt, Tremper, Osterhout, Inc., the well known insurance firm with which Mr. De Witt is identified. Mr. De Witt may be found in the offices of his firm at 238 Fair street.

Late Winter In the Catskills

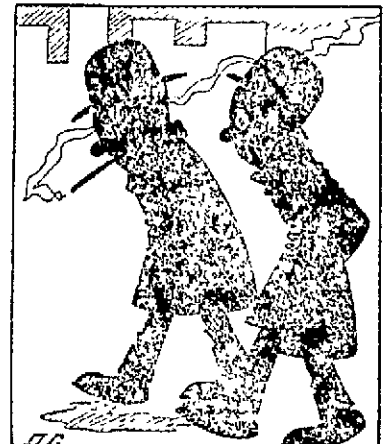

Snowstorms, strong winds and zero temperatures last week furnished the northern Catskills with more old-fashioned winter weather than had been experienced during the preceding months.

The last snowstorm of the week resulted in a fall of from ten to twelve inches on the level, but the heavy winds which raged practically twenty-four hours each day caused drifts to form which in places were six feet deep. Only by the greatest efforts were highways kept open for necessary travel, and barnyard pathways required constant attention. At night the temperature dropped to zero or below.

A Tannersville resident on Saturday reported at Catskill that his efforts to call on a neighbor had to be given up when the snow in his doorway became higher than the tops of his rubber boots.

ALLEN SINGS "OLD SONGS" AT PRIVATE RECITAL

At a private recital given at the beautiful new home of Mrs. Harold C. Matthews in New York city, a group of piano solos played by Elena De Olloqui was followed by a recital of old songs, Celtic, Gaelic, Irish, Scotch and Highland songs sung by Charles Baldwin Allen, the young Scottish baritone, who was accompanied by J. Clarendon McClure, formerly organist of St. John's Episcopal Church, this city. Mr. Allen's singing fascinated the large and representative audience, both with the beauty of his singing, and the rare program sung. These "Old Songs," of love, of romance, of fairy folk, of folk-lore of the sea and the "Isles," have appealed to human hearts, some of them for centuries, and they are just as appealing today. Of all the twenty-six songs sung by Mr. Allen "The Sea-Woman's Sea Song" was the hit of the evening. Mr. Allen will sing this song and many of the others sung at the Matthews recital when, with Mr. McClure he gives his song recital at the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium on the evening of Tuesday, April 8. Tickets for this concert are now for sale and may be purchased of the girls who belong to the Y. W. C. A. or at the Y. M. C. A. Headquarters, 14 Henry street.

On St. Lawrence Commission

In pursuance of the correspondence with the Canadian government in respect to advancement of improvement of the St. Lawrence River, the president has appointed the St. Lawrence Commission of the United States, comprising:

Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, chairman
William C. Breed, attorney at law, New York city, former president, New York Merchants' Association.
James E. Davidson, Bay City, Mich., vice-president, American Ship Building Company, Bay City.
James P. Goodrich, Winchester, Ind., formerly Governor of Indiana.
James R. Howard, Chicago, Ill., formerly president, American Farm Bureau Federation.
James D. Noonan, American Federation of Labor.
Stephen B. Davis, Washington, D. C., counsel.
Charles P. Craig, Duluth, Minn., executive secretary.

A further member of the commission will be chosen from the commercial community in the New England States.

The president's letter of instruction to Secretary Hoover reads as follows:

In appointing the St. Lawrence Commission of the United States under your chairmanship I desire to set out my views as to the work that the Commission can properly undertake.

It is my desire that the Commission should thoroughly consider the whole project in its economic and national aspects, should solicit the views of the various sections of the community, should be able to express an opinion as to whether or not the project should be undertaken at the present time. If this judgment should be in the affirmative, then I wish the Commission to consider the feasibility of such project as might be submitted for international agreement on construction, finance and administration, all of which of course must be of a preliminary nature as a basis for formal negotiations with the Canadian government, and obviously subject to the views of Congress.

In order that the work of the Commission shall be coordinated with the joint engineering investigations suggested in the correspondence with the Canadian government, I am today asking that the War Department place under your direction the necessary engineering officers and you will as Secretary of Commerce represent our government in these matters.

The project of opening the Great Lakes to ocean going ships, and development of the great power resources of the St. Lawrence River, on behalf of both the Canadian and American people, has been a hope long treasured by many millions of our people and it is the desire that this matter, if it is sound and practicable, should be brought one step nearer to consummation that I am asking you and your fellow commissioners to serve in this matter.

Dairy League New Members

The Dairymen's League News says: Dairy farmers have been joining the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association, Inc., in goodly numbers since the termination of the annual cancellation period, February 12 to 28, when an opportunity was accorded members to serve notices of withdrawal, effective April 1.

The Membership Service Department reports that during the week of March 3, 127 new contracts—a daily average of 21—were received. During the first thirteen days of March 212 milk producers signed up with the association, making a total of 4,213 new contracts since April 1, 1923.

During the cancellation period, notices of withdrawal were received from 2,987 active participants in the pool and from 2,137 inactive members, making a total of 5,124, as compared with 10,763 cancellations in 1923.

Organized efforts were made by men who are opposed to the co-operative marketing of milk, to induce farmers to withdraw from the pool. They tried to make cancellation easy by printing and distributing formal withdrawal notices which required only the signatures of members to make them effective. Despite their strenuous campaign to encourage farmers to abandon their association, only a comparatively small number of the carefully prepared notices were filed at the headquarters of the association.

K. of C. Annual Communion

Policeman Elmer Shoemaker raided a crap game at Wilbur and Greenhill avenues on Sunday and arrested John Schoonmaker and Harry Souser, a negro, and seized 75 cents that was in the "kitty" and also the dice. This morning Judge Schirick imposed a fine of $3 each, which was paid.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS.

This evening at the Keeney Theater and also on Tuesday will be shown "The Eternal Three." Marshall Neillan directed the photoplay and wrote the story. The hero of the play is a famous surgeon, and the plot deals with his sacrifice of his personal feelings to the ethics of his profession.

New vaudeville of five good acts will be the offering at the Opera House tonight. The feature picture is "The Rapids." It is a story of a big man, who goes to a little town, St. Mary's, in Canada, and through his indomitable courage and personality wins over the populace to finance the harnessing of the rapids for power.

At the Auditorium tonight Oliver Morosco presents "Slippy McGee" featuring Colleen Moore, Wheeler Oakman and a drama of a crook. It is said he will steal your heart, just as he stole the love of Mary Virginia.

Marshall's Musical Revue is the engagement at the Orpheum Theater all this week. The cast numbers 17, including a beauty chorus. There are several comedians. The play today and tomorrow is "Peter in the Army." The program consists of the latest song and dance hits. The feature, a first run Paramount, is Zane Grey's "The Call of the Canyon," with Richard Dix, Lois Wilson and Marjorie Daw.

At the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary held at the Association Building last Friday, several very pleasing recitations were given by Miss Francella Anderson. It was Miss Dohnken and not Miss Durnican who sang so acceptably. Miss Dohnken is a pupil of Miss M. Helen Freer.

Preparing for First Trip.

Weather permitting, the steamer Ida of the Saugerties and New York Steamboat Co. will make her first trip to New York on Tuesday evening, March 26, at 6 o'clock. The steamer RFA Snyder will be put on the route later.

Ford Moved Ton Traffic Standard

The big concrete traffic standard at the corner of North Front and Wall streets, was struck by a Ford car driven by Joseph McEnney of Rosendale at 2 o'clock Sunday morning and moved four feet, according to a police report. These new traffic standards weigh 1,500 pounds each. The police report states that the Ford was somewhat damaged, but the standard continued "blinking." The Ford after moving the standard shot up on the sidewalk narrowly missing going through the plate glass front of the Paris Cloak and Suit Company on North Front street. Later in the day the street department men replaced the standard.

SAUGERTIES.

Saugerties, March 17.—A severe windstorm hit Saugerties and vicinity over Sunday, doing considerable damage. Several trees were blown down. One large tree in front of the residence of B. S. Thornton on Washington avenue, at that place was blown over Sunday afternoon, breaking electric light wires, etc. The Ulster Electric Light, Heat and Power Co. repair gang worked diligently at their task. It was necessary to cut the tree free to make it safe for pedestrians.

George Schroeder, Louis Rovegno, and George Kline of Saugerties were in Poughkeepsie on business today.

Tonight, the Catholic Daughters of America will hold a euchre and dance in the Lasher Hall, Saugerties.

Robert W. Thornton of the Metropolis, was a guest of his parents on Washington avenue over the week end.

The Federation business meeting will follow directly after Miss Leigh's talk and will be of special importance, so that Dr. Day, president of The Federation asks all Federation women to plan to remain for the same. The Monday Club is the entertaining club at this open meeting.

Fragrant Musk Plant Is Losing Its Scent

Why has the fragrant musk lost its scent? This is the question which many English florists and gardeners have been asking and wondering for 30 years. Formerly this little flower was among the most fragrant in the botanical records. It was originally found by David Douglas in 1826 growing on the margins of the Columbia river, and was exported to various parts of the world from there. When discovered it was sweetly scented. In 1877 the musk was hybridized in England, and although much larger flowers were produced by this artificial method of culture, the flower was often devoid of fragrance. One theory is that the loss of scent dates from this time.

Only in one instance has an odor been recently ascribed to the English musk, and that was in 1917, when the earl of Waldegrave sent a few rare specimens to the Royal Horticultural society in London. Although only seven years have elapsed since the earl made his report, the same plants, unmoistened and untransplanted, have already lost their scent.

In addition to the hybridization theory of the loss of the musk's fragrance other ideas have been advanced to account for the discrepancy. One is that the human sense of smell is no longer so acute as formerly and cannot register the flower's odor. Another theory is that the leaves of the musk 50 years ago were very hairy, but after transplantation in alien countries the hairs were lost and with them the scent.

The idea most endorsed by the English botanists, however, is that essential oils, conducting to the flower's fragrance, have been lost in the process of acclimatization.

The Diva

The poster advertised the world's greatest diva and depicted a very corpulent lady. Members of a crowd assembled were discussing it. "Queer spelling," ventured one. "Don't they mean diver?" "I don't think so," declared another. "It is evidently a foreign word for something or other. She's too fat for a diver."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mongols Were Suspicious

It took some persuasion to convince the Mongolian government that the purposes of the Andrews third Asiatic expedition were purely scientific. An elaborate expedition of 26 men, 75 camels and motor cars was not believed to be looking for old bones. A quest for gold and oil was thought more likely.

"PARADISE of the EARTH"

Roof of the "Straight" Street in Damascus.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

If Adam and Eve returned to our spinning sphere they could step into an American automobile and commute between the Garden of Eden and "paradise on earth."

This is no mere figure of speech, because Christians place Eden in the Euphrates valley near Babylon, while Mohammedans consider Damascus "paradise of the earth," and now Damascus and Bagdad, just over the way from Babylon, have been linked by a passenger transport using motor cars "Made in the United States."

The station-car for the new rubber-tired caravan is a likely candidate for conductor on the Magic Carpet. Before the sun peeps over Mt. Carmel the head gasoline sheik pokes his head in the door of the best hotel at Haifa, Jerusalem's Mediterranean port, and probably shouts in stentorian train-caller tones:

"All aboard for Bagdad! Stops made at Sidon, Tyre, Beirut, Mt. Lebanon Pass, Damascus, Ramadi, and points east, leaving Haifa Saturday, 10 a. m., arrive at Bagdad noon Monday."

If it is not the Magic Carpet, it certainly is a near approach to that long sung mode of transportation. Even in 1914 Haifa was almost a month from Bagdad by overland travel, and three weeks of that month had to be spent in tedious, racking camel-travel. But the hotel entrance discloses no planes; only three sleek American motor cars purring like great cats, and a view of the blue Mediterranean.

These three motor cars traveling twice a week between Haifa, Damascus and Bagdad are the latest jolt to the changing and changed East. It means that products of American mechanical genius have conquered what is probably the oldest trade route known to man, the sandy waste between the Holy Land and the rich valley of the twin rivers, Tigris and Euphrates, where Babylon raised her mighty towers.

Less than twenty years ago ancestors of these motor cars which cover 700 miles of desert in two days and a half, were snatched up by New York sportsmen if they could chug around a half-mile board track without stopping. What wonder that the shuffle-footed camels, masters of this desert trail for more than 6,000 years, elevate their noses in painful disgust when Akron (Ohio) tires throw sand in their eyes.

Motoring Through Historic Land.

London is brought within 10 days of Bagdad by the new transport which now carries mail as well as passengers. Travelers can connect with the service at Haifa by train from Alexandria or ship directly to the port of Beirut and join the caravan there. The motor cars, in addition to three expert chauffeurs, carry a motor mechanic and also, on reaching the true desert, an Arab skilled in politics as well as travel. Leaving Haifa, on the Day of Acre of Crusader fame, the cars descend directly to the sand beach. This affords one of the finest motor roads in the world. So closely do the cars hug the shore that waves often lap the wheels.

Before reaching Tyre, Gibraltar of the ancient world, and Sidon, its one-time New York, the swift cars must turn inland to evade dunes. But a perfect pike awaits them, for Allenby's chicken-wire road stretches before the motorists. When the English fought the Turks in Palestine they found that prosaic wire mesh would support a flivver in the sand, and it is this same war road which the passenger transport uses.

Tyre, and Sidon, whose destruction Ezekiel most aptly prophesied and which Jesus declared were but little better than wicked Sodom, look innocent enough today. Like Los Angeles and San Francisco, these two ports carried on an ancient feud for supremacy. Today Sidon is the largest. It exports thousands of cases of oranges and tons of olives from the fruitful Syrian plain. Ancient Sidonians extracted a beautiful purple dye from Mediterranean shellfish but the copyright laws were loose in Solomon's day.

PAINTING SMALL CAR BY AMATEUR

Cost of Renovation in Various Cases, Apart From Time, Is Not Heavy.

(By ERWIN GREEN, President Green College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

Car painting by amateurs is quite the fashion nowadays. Small car owners will be glad to hear that the cost of renovating a car in various cases, apart from the questions of his own labor and time, is not at all heavy. For a one-coat job the cost of enamel, brush and cleaning materials is well under $3, while a complete renovation (three-coat work) or changing the color need not cost very much more and leave a good quantity of material over for retouching purposes. This figure is on the ample side and allows for the very best material. Car renovation is a case where only the best materials should be employed, and the amateur should insist upon obtaining first-class enamel.

Wide Range of Colors.

The work is easily carried out, and excellent results may be obtained. As to the choice of color, a very wide range is available, including the popular grays, blues of all shades, greens, reds, dark browns, yellows, whites, creams, and black. In the majority of cases where car renovation is necessary it will be found a very simple matter. When cars have been stored, it may be found that the paint work has entirely lost its gloss and presents a dull and dirty appearance. Provided the surface is in fairly good condition, all that may be necessary is to give the car one coat of enamel.

The body work and chassis should first be cleaned with turpentine or gasoline to remove any grime. Prepare a pail of hot water to which some common washing soda has been added (not too much soda should be used, about one ounce to a gallon of water being sufficient). Take a piece of flat felt and dip it in the hot soda water and then in finest pumice dust, and scour down well with this, doing about three feet of the body work at a time until the car is completely rubbed over. All pumice dust should be removed with clean cold water and a chamol.

Touch Up Dents.

When dry touch up any scratches or dents with paint and fill in with a suitable stopping paste. After the stopping paste is dry it should be rubbed over smoothly with a piece of fine sandpaper and all dust washed off. A coat of gloss enamel should be applied and the job is completed.

Wabbling Hind Wheel Is "Eyesore" to Any Driver

If there's one thing that's bound to catch the eye of any driver, no matter how unobtrusive otherwise, it's a wabbling hind wheel of a car ahead or the crippled front "roller" of a machine approaching. All who witness these premonitions of danger prophecy trouble ahead for the owner.

But the owner seldom learns the truth about the condition of his own wheels because he is busy speculating about the crooked courses the wheels of passing cars are taking.

Early and Late Sparks Are Designation Terms

Early spark and late spark are merely terms to designate how the spark is timed by manipulation of the spark control lever, early spark meaning spark occurring a trifle before the beginning of power stroke of each piston, caused by advancing the spark lever; and late spark meaning spark occurring at the beginning or a trifle after beginning of power strokes and caused by retarding the spark lever.

Bluing Metal

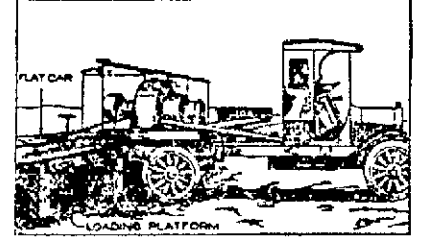

Small bright metal objects, such as screws, may be blued by the simple process of placing them on a piece of sheet metal and holding it over a fire until the parts being treated have assumed the desired color.

Pedestrians Urged to Face Traffic on Road

The Pennsylvania Motor federation sent to its 62 affiliated clubs a circular urging pedestrians walking on the highways, especially at night, to face the traffic by walking on the left side of the road. After a careful study of the situation, it has been found that in most of the cases where cars strike persons on the highways at night the driver is partially blinded by the headlights of approaching cars and, swinging to the right, fails to see pedestrians. It is contended that if persons walking on the roads would face the traffic they would be better able to avoid being struck, and also would be seen sooner by the drivers of cars approaching in the opposite direction.

Unloading Heavy Machine From Platform to Truck

A man who had the job of unloading heavy machines from a truck was confronted by the shortage of labor, and employed a method which made use of the power of the truck for moving machines. On backing the truck up against the loading platform, the machine was moved by means of levers, so that the base of it projected about 10 inches from the rear end of the truck. It was raised slightly, so that a roller could be placed under it.

By Moving a Truck Forward and Back Under Its Own Power, Heavy Machines Are Unloaded From It on Rollers, and Pushed Onto Flat Cars.

The machine was moved by means of levers, so that the base of it projected about 10 inches from the rear end of the truck. It was raised slightly, so that a roller could be placed under it. —Maury Robinson, Paris, Tex., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Plan to Test Defective Valve for a Slow Leak

To test a defective valve for a slow leak, turn the wheel until the valve stem is at its highest point—as far from the road as possible. Remove the dust cap and hold a glass of water so that the mouth of the stem is submerged beneath the liquid. Small bubbles of air will form and rise to the surface of the water if the valve is leaking. When such trouble is experienced, the cause is usually eliminated by screwing down the seating of the valve or replacing with a new plunger.

AVTOMOBILE PAINTS

Feed a teaspoonful of graphite into the engine through the inlet while the engine is running, but be sure to use only the best graphite.

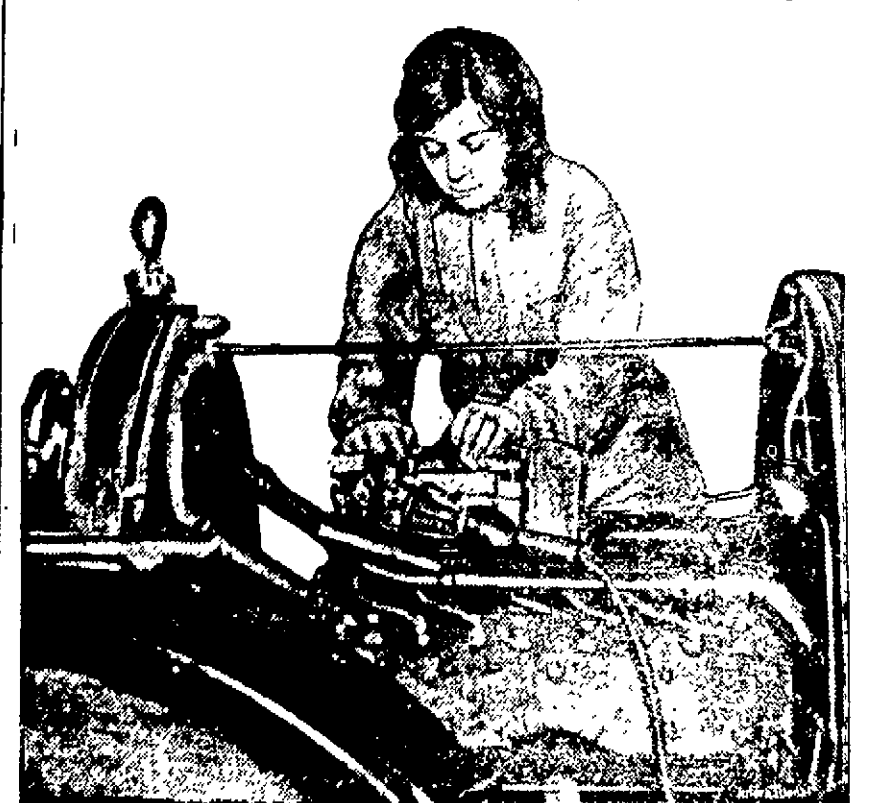

Thirteen million automobiles registered at an average of 4,000 miles of travel per vehicle per year will roll up a total of something like 52,000,000,000 car miles per year.

Both caterpillar tread and wheel traction are provided with a new concrete mixer for street paving contractors, the two types of motive power being readily interchangeable.

Barriers extending along the ground from one or both sides of a recently patented roadway gate enable the automobilist to open or close the gate merely by running his car over them.

Never pour water rapidly into the cooling system when a motor is hot. Cold water, when striking the overheated cylinders, is likely to cause them to crack because of the rapid contraction which takes place.

Globe-Girdling Planes Hop Off

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Santa Monica, Cal., March 17.—With the cheers of a crowd of approximately 1,000 people ringing in their ears, three of the four army planes which will attempt to circle the globe took off at 9:30 o'clock this morning for the first leg of the long air journey.
Only three of the four planes made the start today, the plane piloted by Lt. Erik Nelson not having been completed until early yesterday. Lt. Nelson immediately flew the ship to San Diego for its compass swinging and was unable to return here this morning in time for the take-off. He will overtake the other three ships by the time they reach Seattle, Major P. L. Martin, commander of the globe girdling night announced.

Society Notes

Birthday Party.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schwartz at 70 North Front street, was the scene of an enjoyable birthday party, the occasion being the sixteenth anniversary of the birthday of their daughter, Miss Sylvia Schwartz. There was singing, dancing, games and novelty dance by Miss Schwartz. A sumptuous supper was served at 11 o'clock. Those present were the Misses Caryl Klein, Rose Goldstein, Sarah Perlman, Sarah Kantowitz, Rebecca Perlman and Sylvia Schwartz; also Jack Friedman, Morris Lipschitz, Isidore Meyer, Mason Millens, Harry Wolf, Isidor Schwartz.

The Coterie.

On Saturday afternoon the regular meeting of The Coterie was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Thompson. Mrs. Brown had the first paper for the day on "Egyptian Hieroglyphics and other Forms of Egyptian Records," that was both interesting and instructive. In the second paper on "Buried Egyptian Cities and Excavations," Miss Hale gave among other interesting facts, a very vivid description of the findings in King Tut's tomb, now being opened up. Announcement was made of the open Federation meeting to be held at the chapel of the First Dutch Church on Wednesday afternoon at exactly 2:30 o'clock. The next Coterie meeting will be with Mrs. Kingman.

Louis Davis.

Harry T. Low and Miss Marjorie Davis, both of this city, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at a pretty church wedding in the Reformed Church of the Comforter. The impressive religious ceremony was used. The Rev. W. F. Stowe, pastor of the church, officiated, and the attendants were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Potter of Hasbrouck avenue. The bride is a charming young woman and for some time has been engaged as trained nurse at the Tuberculosis Hospital. She was attired in a traveling dress of dark blue with embroidered trimmings and carried a bouquet of roses. The groom is employed by the Elster & Delaware railroad. Both bride and groom are very popular and have the well wishes of a host of friends. After a wedding trip in the south, Mr. and Mrs. Low will reside in their new home, recently completed, at No. 116 Andrew street.

Daugherty And Burns

Burns told Muma, Holdridge said, that he had never heard of the letter directing department agents to investigate the alleged film conspiracy.

"After the conference, Muma said he went back to New York 'with an easier mind,' saying he felt better."

"Did he say why he felt better?" "No, he just felt better after talking to Burns."

"Was Muma ever prosecuted?" "No."

"Only the goats were?" "That's what I understood."

Holdridge said it was possible to seize the films under the law by charging a conspiracy to violate the film law in which case the films would be subject to seizure, but they were never seized.

Holdridge said Muma then showed him the contract for showing the films, under which he (Muma) received 50 per cent of the profits. Holdridge later explained he had met a "Colonel Martin" in Muma's apartment, but he didn't know whether he was the same "Martin" mentioned in the contract. Tex Rickard and Quimby also signed the contract.

"Muma charged that the others weren't 'playing fair,' that the expenses were too high," Holdridge said.

"Muma told me that they had charged $35,000 for expenses in Chicago."

"Did he tell you they got into the hands of the wrong set of lawyers in Chicago?"

"No."

"Did he say that the Chicago agent got into Judge Landis' court by mistake?"

"No."

Later, Holdridge said he and Muma met Alfred R. Urion, the Washington lawyer, in New York.

"Urion told me he had known Burns for thirty years and that he was a 'peculiar cuss.' He seemed to want to impress me with his close friendship with Burns."

Holdridge said he also received the impression "that Urion was very friendly to Daugherty as well as Burns."

"A Colonel Martin, owner of a mid-western baseball park, and Gordon Muma, Jap Muma's brother, were also present," continued Holdridge. "I think a young lady also came in."

"Who was she?" asked Wheeler. "I am not sure. Ladies frequently came in and out of Muma's apartment. Urion said he was kept constantly on the go between New York, Kansas City and Washington."

"Were these trips in connection with the film deals?"

"That was my impression."

As he was leaving Muma's apartment, Holdridge said he met Jim Dunn, a former agent of the department of justice. Holdridge, Muma and Dunn then returned to Muma's apartment in the Ansonia Hotel.

Dunn became suspicious of Muma's activities and wondered why he (Dunn) was standing in front of the Ansonia. He was afraid I had arranged to have the agent watch him. After Dunn left, a woman came to me and said 'watch out for Jap, he's knocking you to Tom Spelley.'

"Who was the young woman?" "She was the widow of a very famous war aviator."

"Holdridge said Muma told him that Ralph Navarro, 'the department of justice agent who frightened me into the trip to Washington, has been sent on a foreign assignment.'"

"Muma told you this after his trip to Washington when he saw Burns?"

"Yes."

"Was that true?"

"Navarro was sent to Haiti. He is now Honolulu, Hawaii."

"Did Navarro say why he was sent to Haiti?"

"He said it was a soft snap."

Holdridge said Muma told him that F. C. Quimby, producer of the fight films, had a conversation with Sherman Burns, son of William Burns.

Holdridge then went into detail in describing the fines and convictions obtained all over the country for exhibiting the films.

One of the violators, William H. Rudolph, Holdridge said, was arrested in four cities, Guthrie, Okla., New Orleans, La.; Mobile and Atlanta. The fines averaged $200, the witness added.

G. O. Holdridge Was From Cairo

Three Years Ago He Was In Auto Accident Near Albany In Which One Was Killed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, March 17.—Gerald O. Holdridge, former agent of the department of justice, who was called to testify in the Daugherty investigation at Washington in connection with the alleged conspiracy to transport and exhibit Dempsey-Carpentier fight films, at one time was in charge of the Albany office of the department of justice. He left here two years ago last month and later was connected with the department at Washington.

It was just three years ago today that Holdridge figured in an automobile accident on the Albany-Schenectady road in which one soldier was killed and several badly hurt. Holdridge was an occupant of the car at the time of the accident.

It was claimed by the police following the accident that several empty whiskey bottles were found in the wrecked machine.

Holdridge originally came from Cairo in the Catskills. He was identified with the department of justice office in New York before being placed in charge of the Albany office.

The funeral was privately held at her late residence on Sunday at 11 a. m. with interment at Bantam Bay Cemetery at Kyserike.

Mrs. Mary Schroeder, widow of Fred Schroeder, died this morning at the home of her son, William Schroeder, No. 276 Second avenue, after a long illness. Mrs. Schroeder was born in Germany and came to this city in 1873, where she has since resided and has made a host of friends. Besides her son she leaves one daughter, Mrs. William Buddenhagen, also of this city. Funeral from the late home, No. 276 Second avenue, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and 2:30 at the Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church on Livingston street. Interment in the family plot in the Montrose Cemetery.

Charles P. Kent, one of Milton's most highly respected residents, died at St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh last Thursday afternoon. Death was caused by pneumonia. He was 77 years of age. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Oscar Hall of Philadelphia, Miss Florence Kind, charitable and hospitable. She is survived by her husband and one son, Richard Carter Dawe, and a host of friends who deeply sympathize with them in their grief. Her pastor, the Rev. W. G. Westervelt, officiated at the services.

The funeral services of Mrs. Eleanor Jane Dawe, wife of Richard Dawe, were held from her late residence, 11 Lawrence street, Saturday afternoon, were attended by a large number of friends. The Presbyterian Class of the Wurts Street Baptist Sunday school, of which she was a member, attended in a body. She had been a faithful member of the church and Sunday school since childhood. Her interest was centered in her home and church and no sacrifice was too great to make for either. During the recent illness of her daughter, Miss Martha Davis, Mrs. Dawe cared for her with untiring devotion and after her daughter's death, late in December last, her own strength gradually failed her, and though she made a brave fight to live, death finally claimed her. She was a woman of great Christian faith, kind, charitable and hospitable. She is survived by her husband and one son, Richard Carter Dawe, and a host of friends who deeply sympathize with them in their grief. Her pastor, the Rev. W. G. Westervelt, officiated at the services.

The interment took place in the Methodist Cemetery. Mr. Kent was a life long resident of Milton and one of the prominent fruit growers and was beloved and respected by all who knew him.

James H. Snyder, first vice-president of the Fidelity Title and Mortgage Guaranty Company of Ridgewood, N. J., died very suddenly Saturday at his desk in the office of the company. Mr. Snyder was also a director of the Ridgewood Trust Company and a former trustee of the village. For the past eighteen years he had resided at Ridgewood. He was born at Rosendale sixty years ago. Prior to his retirement ten years ago, he was for many years the senior member of the firm of Droste and Co., widely known egg merchants with offices on Warren street, New York city. He is survived by his wife, five sons and one daughter, also three sisters, Mrs. C. O. Dunwoodie of Phillipsburg, N. J., Mrs. A. O. Swart of East Orange, N. J., and Mrs. A. E. Bruyn of New York city, all formerly of this city. Funeral Tuesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock from the late residence at Ridgewood. Interment at Ridgewood Cemetery.

NEW YORK AMERICAN COMPLIMENTS McENTEE

The McEntee insurance agency of this city recently obtained some German marks and used them for advertising purposes. This morning's New York American, while not mentioning the McEntee agency, had this to say editorially regarding the scheme:

Keep Off Foreign Currency.

An insurance agency in Kingston, New York, put to an ingenious use the worthless German 100,000 mark notes. The agency distributed the notes to its customers with the following appeal printed on the back:

Worth $23,500 a few years ago, today this German bank note is not worth two cents.

Your financial standing may suffer a similar fate through a serious fire, a bad automobile accident, a theft or robbery.

We can protect YOU against loss from these misfortunes.

The Kingston agency could do a service to its clients by adding the following to its story:

P. S.—Another thing: What has happened to the mark ought to teach you not to buy any of the foreign currencies, lest you get stung like the myriads of Americans who lost altogether a billion dollars buying marks in the hope they were going back to par.

DEMONSTRATING MACHINE THAT ENGRAVES AT WARREN'S.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week a demonstration will be conducted at C. A. Warren's sporting goods store on Fair street of an automatic engraving machine by which it is possible to engrave a name upon practically any hard substance, such as a fountain pen, a pen knife or a pair of glasses.

The Engraving now being demonstrated is a product of the Federal Engineers' Development Corporation of 154 Ogden avenue, Jersey City. A. P. Fowler, who is demonstrating the machine and has an interest in the corporation, says this is the only automatic engraving machine in the world and is one of the very few patents accepted out of the thousands submitted to them yearly for development.

Goldsworthy to Broadcast.

William A. Goldsworthy of Yorkers will broadcast an organ recital from WEAF on March 31, at 9 o'clock in the evening. Mr. Goldsworthy is a former Kingston resident and at one time was organist at the Wurts Street Baptist Church.

Duso League Honors Come Here As Result of Local Quintet Beating Newburgh Backeteers Saturday—Kingston Now Has First Opportunity For State Honors.

Saturday afternoon at Newburgh the Kingston High School Varsity quintet won the Duso League basketball championship by defeating Newburgh Academy 26 to 17.

This game was the crucial point in the fight for the Duso League championship and thus was the most exciting and hardest fought contest in the league this year.

The game was played at the Newburgh Armory, which was packed to capacity, there being about three thousand basketball fans present. Somewhere between one hundred fifty and two hundred of the three thousand were Kingstonians, who had succeeded in reaching Newburgh by all known methods except airplane. These people were bunched in the upper right hand corner of the armory. The rest of the space was taken up by the Newburgh rooters and also by a delegation from Poughkeepsie.

As the local boys ran out onto the court, they were greeted by a great cheer from the Kingston rooters. A few minutes later the Newburgh team appeared on the court. The Newburgh rooters then had their chance to make some noise and they took full advantage of the opportunity.

During the twenty minute warming up period, there was some good-natured rivalry between the two cheering sections. Even though the local crowd was out numbered, their cheering was just as good as that of the Newburghers.

When Referee Carling blew the whistle for the beginning of the game, the crowd quieted down, but as soon as the ball was tossed up and tapped the crowd was roaring at the teams.

From the very start the game was fast and rough. After a minute or two of play Newburgh made the first score of the game, a foul, by Rehrey. That was the only score the Hilly City boys made in the first quarter.

A good offensive is the best defensive. The local boys proved this in the first quarter. They started an offense which was too fast and too surprising for Newburgh to follow. After Vogt started the scoring, the rest followed. Merne and Schmidt scored a few fields and some fouls, bringing the score to 12 to 1 at the end of the first quarter.

In the second quarter the locals lost their fighting edge for a few minutes, and in those few minutes Newburgh, with Corbett starting, made eight points. But the locals got started again, made seven points and stopped the Newburgh rally. The half ended with the locals in the lead 19 to 9.

The game had been fast and good to look at during that exciting first half. The locals had played good basketball and had showed superiority except during the first few minutes of the second quarter, when the Newburgh spurt had put fear into the hearts of the Kingston rooters. Everyone of the local players was working well and in unison with each other. Martin was having a hard time trying to outjump Vogt. Schmidt and Merne were working good, the former dropping six out of six fouls. McLane and Stock were a steady pair in the backfield.

During the third quarter the game became rougher. The locals played a shade better than Newburgh and had the ball near their own basket most of the time. Stock played such a hard game that he was put out on personal fouls. Corregan was put in and the lineup shifted a bit. Schmidt going to center and Vogt to guard. During this quarter both Corregan and Schmidt had hard luck, two or three of their fields hanging on the edge of the basket and then dropping to the outside. Newburgh also made some points this quarter, but whenever they came within the locals' territory their passes were broken up by McLane or Vogt.

Corbett and Kerr were doing the best work for the Newburghers. In the fourth quarter the Newburgh team resorted to long shots trusting to a little luck to bring their score up. The locals scored a few points this quarter and during the last few minutes passed the ball to kill time. Corbett sank a pretty field from about the left center of the floor. The Newburgh rooters went wild with joy when the ball dropped through the hoop, thinking that it signalled a rally by their team. The Hilly City boys did take heart and played harder, but the locals stopped any sort of a rally before it got started.

Corbett showed some speed and pep when the locals were killing time by coming in and trying to break up the passes.

The whistle blew ending the game and Kingston High had won the championship of the Duso League. The Kingston crowd rushed out onto the court and carried Coach Anderson from the floor on their shoulders. Newburgh put up a hard fight and tried gamely to pierce Kingston's defense and to stop their offense, but it was too hard a job for them.

Schmidt and Merne were the scoring stars for the locals, making 12 and 10 points respectively. Vogt and Corregan made a field apiece. Every one of the locals played a good game and put his heart into the work of winning. The team work was good and every man deserves great credit for his part in the victory.

The ability of the locals to get started at the first tap-off has stood them in good stead throughout the season and especially so Saturday.

The Newburgh men played good, clean games. Corbett starred in scoring with 13 points. Martin made three points.

Referee Carling had a hard job on his hands with a championship at stake. He handled the game in fine style, but naturally some Newburgh adherents found fault with his decisions. Coach Stevens was satisfied with Carling's refereeing and showed a good spirit of sportsmanship throughout the game, stopping the jeering of the crowd when the local boys shot fouls.

"Herb" Anderson, the school boy coach, deserves great credit for the successful way in which he has led the team through this season.

Kingston High now has its first chance for a look in at the state championship. The games of next Friday and Saturday will decide whether or not they go to Syracuse. The score:
